

the business of BEING CREATIVE

engage1to1 :: in person

Leading wedding industry consultant, Rebecca Grinnals, President of Engaging Concepts, along with Sean Low, President of The Business of Being Creative, will address whatever topics related to your wedding business you want to cover in an interactive and motivational discussion.

In this session, Rebecca will focus on the state of the market, how your business fits into this market, and your competition while Sean will focus on how to structure your business to make the most of what you have and to think about new ways to approach how you do business. As you know, their skill sets and experience combined are vast and therefore will lend to an amazing day of conversation and brainstorming to discover new opportunities, structure your business for growth and take it to new heights.

A pre-consultation questionnaire will be sent to you to help make the very most of your time together. Rebecca and Sean will also review your website, blog, pricing and marketing collateral in preparation for the session.

After the session, a transcript of highlights and notes will be sent to you via email.
